

The following competence to: create models using innovative methods in their professional area that are responsive to the needs of the different contexts, levels, quality criteria and are a recognized contribution in institutional improvements and the environment. As they mentioned, “The implications for skills and competences need to be investigated as a review of the related literatures mainly emphasizes the importance to practitioners of integrating professional and community-based skills in dealing with local community” (Kasdim, Alexander, Hudson 2007). My personal reflection of the competence is the need to investigate and integrate professional skills when dealings with any community. Emphasize its importance and focus on areas of potential research pertaining to skills, knowledge and behavior.” A good fit model for Consumer Reports Magazine, “A non-profit publishing company working for a fair, just, and safe market place for all consumers and to empower consumers to protect themselves”