

I am reflecting on this competency and agreed with the following: "Understand texts in a third language using communication technologies with aperture, sensitivity and willingness to interact in a positive manner in professional fields." is in fact, the opportunity to learn and understand texts in a third language at Universidad De Montemorelos and to interact in a positive manner in professional fields. For one needs to create a positive culture when interact in a positive manner. With the abilities to communicate ideas or experiences in visual form and in various manners. In fact, multiculturalism and technology does enhanced language learning. The New London Group (1996) became interested on the creation and communication of written texts using multimedia resources in second and third language teaching. The group 's manifesto claims that the variety of texts forms associated with the concept of design with multimedia technologies are extremely important, and are understood as an intentional process on behalf of the individual, in order to make and remake meaning.
